Saudi Arabia sign $1.8b deal

LONDON, Nov 23. (Reuter): Britain and Saudi Arabia agreed a £1 billion ($1.8 billion) British investment programme today to offset a major Saudi arms pur-chase, the Defence Ministry said.

The compensation deal was arranged as part of a Saudi pur-chase of British arms believed to be worth about £10 billion ($18

A spokesman said protocols signed in Riyadh by Defence Secretary George Younger and Saudi Arabian Defence Minister Prince Sultan Ibn Abdul Aziz involved investment in Saudi military and civilian projects into the next century.

Younger later flew to Madina to meet King Fahd at the end of a three-day visit to Saudi Arabia.

The arms deal, including advanced Tornado warplanes, is the biggest ever won by the British weapons industry. It began in 1986 with an order for 72 Tornado aircraft, but a further agreement in July added 50 more as well as other weapons.

The Ministry of Defence said a joint committee had been set up under the offset deal to encourage co-operative ventures, especially those involving transfer of advanced technology to Saudi Arabia. No details of individual projects were availa-

Iraq accused of delaying tactics

Iran rules out territorial concessions

NICOSIA, Nov 23, (Reuter): Iran vowed today to make no territorial concessions to Iraq but said it would persevere with peace talks despite what it called delaying tactics by Baghdad.

"The Iranian delegation will not back down as little as one inch on Iran's sovereignty on ... lands and over our territorial waters," Foreign Ministry spokesman Morteza Sarmadi said.

The spokesman, in an interview in Kayhan newspaper quoted by the Iranian news agency IRNA, said Iraq should negotiate on the basis of United Nations Resolution 598, which both countries have accepted.

Tehran says it accepts a peace formula based on Resolution 598 proposed by UN Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar. The plan involves withdrawal of forces across international boundaries, exchange of all prisoners of war, estimated to total 100,000, an end to Iranian searches of Iraqi ships in the Gulf and the clearing of war debris and silt from the Shatt Al Arab.

Iran says Iraqi forces still occupy 1,000 sq. km. (400 sq. miles) of its territory and insists that the first act to consolidate the Aug 20 ceasefire should be their withdrawal.

Drifting mines ripped from their mooring by winter winds pose a fresh threat to shipping in the Gulf just as Western navies are winding down minehunting, naval experts said. The mines, laid off the coasts of Iran and Iraq during the eight-year-long Gulf war, could drift into busy shipping lanes in coming months despite extensive mine-sweeping efforts in the southern and central Gulf, Western naval experts said today. "There is a good chance many of the mines in the north will

One Western naval expert warned: "If they (European minesweepers) find anything nasty tomorrow, the whole programme will be delayed."

The US Navy, which has six minehunters in the northern Gulf, has netted 166 mines in the past year and estimates at least 200 are left. Western naval experts believe the mines were laid by Iran.

Most are believed to be moored out of the reach of foreign minesweepers, in or near Iranian and Iraqi territorial waters.

The US Navy said this month its minesweepers had cleared a danger area 16 miles (25 km) wide and 12 miles (18 km) long near Iran's Farsi island in the central Gulf.

Chun apologises for abuses and corruption

SEOUL, Nov 23, (AP): Former South Korean strongman Chun Doo-Hwan told the nation today he was sorry for abuses and corruption during his presidency, and said he was giving back $24 million and accepting rural exile. His opponents called that insufficient and demanded an investigation.

Radical students — among Chun's most vitriolic critics staged campus and street protests in Seoul and elsewhere to press their demands he be arrested on corruption and other

In a nationally televised ch trom his hod Chun apologised for misdeeds committed during his seven-year rule, which ended last February.

"My dear people, I am really sorry," Chun said in a grim voice. "I have to bear full responsibility for the past seven years, which is branded by the people as an era of authoritarianism and mis-deeds, although I tried to do my best in my way."

Chun, looking tired and strained, apologised for corruption and other misdeeds and offered to surrender all his personal property, including a $1.4million house, two golf club memberships and $3.3 million in cash. He also said he would return some $20 million in political funds.

Repentance

Chun and his wife, Lee Soon-Ja, left their home after the speech to begin rural exile, a traditional way for disgraced Korean leaders to show repentance. Mrs Lee wept in the car that took them away. The couple spent the first day of their exile in a remote Buddhist temple in eastern South Korea. Newspapers said they would stay in a nearby village for a while but would move occasionally for security reasons. Radical groups had vowed to punish Chun.

Newspapers quoted unidentified government sources as saying President Roh Tae-Woo likely would issue a statement soon appealing for the nation-to-forgive Chun. The sources said Roh wanted a meeting with opposition leaders to defuse the crisis, but it was unclear if he would

Opposition leader Kim Dae-Jung said Chun's apology was short of public expectations. He said he and other opposition leaders doubted the apology was sufficient

Kim, president of the opposition Party for Peace and Democracy, proposed the National Assembly appoint a special prosecutor to guarantee a neutral probe of allegations against Chun, his family and associates. He said Chun must appear before parliamentary investigative committees and "make public in a manner convincing to the people" how the former president acquired and spent political funds amounting to billions of dollars."

Another top opposition leader, Kim Young-Sam, also called for the appointment of a special prosecutor, saying: "The truth must be clearly disclosed regardless of such an apology."

apology as "a challenge to the nation," and staged campus and street protests in Seoul and provincial cities.

Sharpeville Six appeal rejected

Africa, Nov 23, (Reuter): South Africa's highest court today rejected an appeal for the retrial of six blacks convicted for their part in the mob murder of a black councillor, the national news agency reported.

The appeal was the last legal recourse for the so-called Shar-peville Six, five black men and a woman who have been sentenced to death for the killing.

The convictions have raised a storm of controversy around the Defence lawyer Prakash Diar said the decision was disappoint-

We had hoped that the court would have been reopened so that all allegations against the six could have been properly can-vassed. We will have to approach the state President. It will take us a few weeks to do that," he said.

The six, who come from the black township of Sharpeville south of Johannesburg, were sentenced to death in December 1985 for their part in the mob killing of black town councillor

Jacob Dlamini in September

The case stirred international outrage and appeals for clemency because the six were convicted of sharing a common purpose with the mob rather than actually carrying out the murder.

Defence lawyers applied for the case to be reopened because a key state witness, Joseph Man-ete, said he had lied at the original trial because of police pressure. Dlamini was stoned, stabbed and then burned during widespread anti-apartheid unrest in South Africa's black townships. The appeal court backed a decision by the original trial judge, Justice W. J. Human, not to reopen the trial.

Ministers vow to boost military co-operation

KUWAIT, Nov 23, (Agencies): Kuwait's Defence Minister Sheikh Nawaf Al Ahmed Al Ahmed returned here from Riyadh today after attending a conference for GCC defence ministers.

The ministers agreed to boost military co-operation, exchange expertise and hold regular exer-

The ministers also decided, at the end of a two-day meeting here, to initiate steps to enhance co-operation between the armed forces of the six GCC states, Secretary-General Abdullah Bishara said.

Sheikh Nawaf expressed hope that further co-operation between GCC members will ensure greater security and peace for countries of the region.

Meanwhile, he also praised Saudi Arabia's Second Deputy Premier, Defence and Aviation Minister Prince Sultan Bin Abdul Aziz for his efforts and 'wisdom" in running the conference sessions.

The defence chiefs noted with satisfaction, the council's achievements, and expressed determination to upgrade the

The top defence officials also endorsed recommendations of GCC chiefs of staff "that aim to remove hurdles and boost cooperation in all military fields," the secretary-general said.

This was the first official meeting of the GCC Defence Council since Iraq and Iran entered a ceasefire in the eight-year Gulf war on Aug 20. The GCC countries and Iran are in the process of improving their relations as tensions ease in the region.

THE US Surgeon-General has appealed to the World Health Organisation (WHO) to take the lead in the international effort to stop people from smoking.

BAHRAIN DIGEST

Phone service to improve

WITH the introduction of digital circuits, international telephone calls from Bahrain will soon show an improvement in quality. Bahrain Telecommunications Co. (Batelco) has started converting its international telephone circuits to digital operation, starting with calls to Britain. According to a spokesman, the digitalisation process is part of Batelco's programme to improve the quality of international connections for Bahrain's telephone subscribers.

He said that callers would find the usual circuit noise considerably reduced while making international calls. Circuits to Britain and the US will be fully digitalised by the middle of 1989 and to other countries as service becomes available. Digitalisation of international circuits was essential to prepare Bahrain for the era of the "Integrated Services Digital Network" (ISDN), a breakthrough in the telecommunications industry designed to after better service to both the authorities and subscribers.

Fifty-five per cent of Bahrain's telephone network is currently digital. By early the 1990's the whole network is expected to be fully digitalised, according to the spokesman.

THE 12th meeting of the GCC Trade Co-operation Committee will be held on Saturday.

The meeting, which is being held to coincide with the fifth GCC Trade Fair which opens at the Arabian Exhibition Centre on the same day, will be attended by the ministers of Commerce and Industry from the GCC states.

Meanwhile, the fifth GCC Trade Fair has attracted companies from throughout the Gulf, including 40 from Oman. The fair was organised by the Ministry of Commerce and Agriculture, under the patronage of Prime Minister Shelkh Khalifa bin Sulman Al Khalifa.

MTC considers new charges

VARIOUS recommendations for charges to be paid by users of mobile telephones have been considered by the Mobile Telephone Company (MTC), a local daily quoted the company's deputy chairman Fuad Mohammad Al Ghanim as stating.

MTC allocated 500 minutes monthly to users of the mobile telephone service and retained the annual subscription fee at KD200. One recommendation says subscribers who use less than the allocated time could have the unused amount added to their user time in the coming month.

Considered

Another proposal said subscribers exceeding the allocated time should pay additional charges, the official said.

Sources at the company were quoted as saying that these alternatives were considered by the company in a meeting held by the board with the ministries of fin-

Apparently he used a faulty old revolver which boomeranged and threw the gunpowder back on his face. He had to be treated for eye-cleaning and he remained inactive for many days. Could the producer of Dharam Yudh not be more careful? He is a veteran called Pawan Kumar. Another recent casualty was Sridevi who fell off a glass table in a Madras Studio and suffered when the glass cracked.

On the outdoor location of Nainsaafi the dashing Chunky also had a fall while riding and the horse kicked him on the forehead. He had to undergo a five-hour operation and get several stitches on his face, which have to be hidden by make-up with difficulty. Could director Mehul Kumar not take proper precautions? In the USSR there is a law that the director is personally responsible for any mishaps that may occur during shooting. He can be even jailed for neglect.

Escape Chunky was at least lucky to escape. Some years back, the tall and handsome hero Shyam, was doing a riding scene for Shabistan. He fell down and died of the injuries, he had suffered. Cinegoers still remember him with affection. Some time

Aamir is becoming a very popular hero and since Bhattacharya had completed his film before that he now wants to cash in on Aamir's new popularity, though he is only playing a supporting role. For the new scene, Aamir was supposed to meet with a car accident. Bhattacharya decided to take a reverse shot. Aamir was made to lie very near the wheel and actress Naina Balsawar would drive the car backwards, while he would roll forward. The final effect would be the car screeching to a halt and Aamir dashing against the wheel. But Naina forgot the gears, and when the camera rolled, she drove the car forward. Luckily, Aamir used his presence of mind and rolled

Other stars have also faced an accident at some time or the other in their life. Sonam very nearly drowned in a lake at: Bangalore while shooting for

Vijay. Producer Yash Chopra's son saved her. When Daisy Irani was a top child star, she would have drowned in a pool at Prabhat studio, Poona, after the shooting of Duniya Jhukti Hai. Being mischievous, she wanted to wet her feet. An assistant director saw her and saved her. While doing B. Subhash's Tarzan, the new actor Hemant Birje faced many dangers. One was a surprise attack by a lion taking a long leap. Another was while passing through a ring of fire the flames suddenly became more fierce and he could neither let go of the rope nor keep hanging. Some years ago, in the ape-man called Zimbo a lioness took hero Azad Irani's head right inside her mouth and he started bleeding, profusely. He was at once saved but the recovery took many days.

The famous scene of Mother India where Nargis passes through a jungle of fire looks terrific on the screen. But it would have cost the great actress her life, if Sunil Dutt had not jumped in and saved her. That is what brought them together in the bond of marriage.

Later Padmini Kolhapure and Rishi Kapoor went through the same ordeal of fire in the climax of Prem Rog. They were tied inside a ring of fire, when the flames became uncontrollable. If Raza Murad had not bravely rushed and released the two, apart from beating the flames, the end might have been horrible.

All the more reason why all studios and units must provide strong safety measures for every such scene. The producer must also take insurance policies for all members of such units. Otherwise, legislation should be passed to make it compulsory.

Dangers Hema Malini and others have faced personal dangers in real life, like facing armed men at night. Moon Moon Sen got almost kidnapped in Calcutta and escaped after a car chase.

Jackie Shroff has come out of motorbike accidents during shooting and otherwise.

Anupam Kher has faced the danger of dummy bullets scraping unprotected parts of his body. It is whispered about Raj Kumar that when he was in the police force, a man died under his custody. He could never overcome the guilt, it is said. So he faced many dangers on hunting trips in reality.

And of course there is the famous case of Rameshwari who got hurt during Sunayua so that her one eye became bigger than the other. She was sent to America for treatment. But it did not help and her career was Dimple is trying to get much mileage out of Zakhmi Aurat as the film is a moderate success. But few people know that she refused to work for the same producer's Muqadma. She said her price was now much more (rupees fifteen lakhs) and she could not work in a small setup. What Dimple forgets is that if her price went up, it was because of Zakhmi Aurat.

Padmini Kolhapure and her hubby Tutu Sharma have been blacklisted from a dubbing theatre for not clearing a bill of just ten thousand rupees. And to think that the couple is making four big budget films like Mar Mitenge, Asoolon Ki Jung like a grown-up. Where do you draw your emotions from while acting?

There's no such thing, there's no theory about acting. When I was seven I did my first film. I had to do a death scene and didn't know what death meant. So, I just pretended to go off to sleep. I'm told I did the death scene so well that both the director and the hero started crying. They couldn't stand the thought that I was dead. Can you cry easily for the

I can't cry for the camera. I have to act it out, I need glycerine. While doing Mr. India, Shekhar (Kapoor) told me to avoid glycerine, he felt I could cry on my own. I tried to, I tried to think of so many things but a tear just wouldn't come. Probably, nothing sad has ever happened to me. Touch wood, no harm has ever come to my family or my relatives. But Shekhar wouldn't listen, he said keep trying. Finally, the tears came but they

So whenever I'm asked to look as if I'm in love, I look as if the world's burdens are on my shoulders. I've learnt everything from films. I don't want to learn what life is all about. Knowing about the ways of the world means getting into ihomelas unnecessarily.

Too many cooks spoil the broth

YES, the government can certainly do something about the stagnation that is hitting the Kuwait Stock Market. We mean to say stagnation - not drop or retreat.

We stress here again that the laws and regulations applied at the Stock Market are simply funny. Basically, all bad decisions are applied and good ones overlooked. And many decisions made long ago have just been shelved.

These decisions are expected to be enforced tomorrow or maybe after a month or even longer. Meanwhile, people are adversely affected by their absence. An example is the decision on "duration sale" of shares. It is really surprising that authorities delayed its implementation. And why do we not increase the ceiling of share prices. Why do we not study the present trading law at the bourse to see if its clauses are good for this period or not?

Additionally, we should ask if the banks and companies having their shares traded in the market have bought the permissable 10 per cent of their shares or not.

Why doesn't the Central Bank pressure these banks and companies to purchase these shares instead of putting their money in US dollars for more interest rates - in spite of the fact that in the long run the return on Kuwaiti shares will be higher. The government can do many things in this respect.

Why should so many bodies be looking to the same issue. We want to know who is responsible for the bourse, its functioning, and administration? Is it the Ministry of Commerce or the Ministry of Finance? Overlapping of duties and responsibilities certainly disrupt the work. One side should be responsible for this important market. Alternatively, it could be an independent body supervised by one ministry.

It should be realised that the retreat in the bourse harms financial positions for individuals. As a result, the state will have to pay the price.

Part of the bourse is looked after by the Ministry of Finance, another by the Ministry of Commerce, a third by the Chamber of Commerce, a fourth is directly influenced by merchants and dealers, while another is reflected on the bank loans and its assets.

We simply want a solution. Ahmed Al Jarallah

Carlsson's mail an open book

By Eva Janzon

STOCKHOLM, (AP): Sweden, everybody can walk into the prime minister's office and look through his mail. They can also peek into government records and find out a lot about your neighbour, from his salary to his debts.

As a matter of policy, government records have been open to the public since 1766, when a political party known as the Caps ousted the rival Hats from goverament in an election fought over charges that the Hats were keeping too much secret.

Now, in the era of the ubiquitous computer and probing media, some Swedes complain about an invasion of Prime Minister Ingvar Carlsson is not one of them. Of 5,577 documents which crossed his desk during the first 10 months of this year, only 109 were classified. The majority were internal memos and correspondence with foreign governments.

Advantage Vivianne Eriksson, who registers the mail and indexes the documents of computer, said not many people take advantage of the privilege of going through Carlsson's mail.

She estimated that no more than one visitor a week, usually a journalist, came into her office for a look, "I suppose most people don't know they can come here," she said in an interview.

Leafing through the computer index, a reporter found subjects ranging from theories about who murdered Carlsson's predecessor, Olof Palme, to requests for an autograph.

Other letters were appeals for political asylum and complaints about pollution or the hunting of moose. This entry was from Maj-Britt Hedlund of Boden: "Wants a new kitchen and to find Palme's killer."

A letter of thanks to Walid Jumbiatt, leader of Lebanon's Druze community, was classified "secret." So was a letter from US President Renald Reagan on nuclear disarmament. Memos on military subjects and on trips abroad by government members also bore the stamp of secrecy. The principle of public access is not limited to authorities. The highly developed Swedish bureaucracy has numbered, registered, compiled and processed information about the citizenry, most of which is open to the

Every Swedish resident has a 10-digit "personal number," which begins with the birthday. Knowing your neighbour's date of birth is enough to gain access to his file at the National Taxation Board which lists his or her income and tax from the previous year, his or her church membership, marital status and current address.

If you take that number to the county police, you can find out if he or she has any unpaid bills and how much he or she owes. Other registers list his or her education, state of health and their hobbies if they are member of an associa-

Such disregard for privacy has been accepted as a price for keeping people honest in a society that strives for equality among its citizens. But hundreds of people complain every year that authorities and private companies abuse public records.

Complaints Such complaints come to data inspection, a 40-man Department of the Justice Ministry which monitors compliance with the regulations governing access to information and privacy.

One common complaint comes from people bombarded by junk mail whose names compunies obtained through government records. In some cases, advertisers paid government offices to compile mailing lists, said Leif Stenstrom, an official at the department.

The department was set up in 1973 when the government instituted a law to guard against misuse of the personal number. Criminal files are restricted, as are files about cases of serious social problems.

Further efforts to limit access have failed to find the right balance between the public's right to know and the protection of privacy, Stenstrom said. Control

"There's been a U-turn," said Stenstrom. "From enabling the common man to control the authorities, you could say (free access) now helps the authorities to control the common man."

Peter Seipel, a professor of law at Stockholm University, said the idea endorsed by the Caps 200 years ago — that men of power and high rank need watching — still applies.

India visit gives Gorbachev a political boost

DELHI, (Reuter): Kremlin leader Mikhail Gorbachev will meet the new US administration and other Western leaders in the coming weeks buoyed by the solid backing of the world's biggest democracy after a three-day visit to India.

Gorbachev and Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi reforged the close links the two leaders have developed at five previous meetings since 1985, holding nine hours of face-to-face talks during the 49-hour visit which ended on

They agreed closely on a broad range of bilateral, regional and global issues, apparently allaying Indian fears that Moscow's growing rapprochement with Beijing would be at the expense of its link with New Delhi.

Government-Solidarity talks all but dead

By John Daniszewski

WARSAW, Poland, (AP): Prospects of serious talks with the opposition appear all but dead after the latest meetings between Lech Walesa and Interior Minister Czeslaw Kiszczak.

Two meetings, hosted by Roman Catholic Archbishop Bronislaw Dabrowski, were held Friday and Saturday between the Solidarity leader and Kiszczak. searching for a way to convene discussions promised at the end of August.

That promise persuaded Walesa to end the country's worst wave of strikes in seven years, but after the euphoric days of early September the prospect for talks seems to have faded.

A pledge to rehire all the August strikers was not kept. Propaganda attacks were launched against several key Walesa aides and the government objected to people Walesa proposed for the talks. And, without warning, the government announced vinced the talks would be phony and irrelevant because officials lacked the will to reach agreement.

Although they was no agreement reached, an official communique said future contacts were planned to bring the opposing positions closer. A disappointed Walesa told reporters on the train platform before going to home to Gdansk that the government and opposition positions were far apart.

If the Polish United Workers (Communist) Party makes the political decision to allow 'pluralism" - the terminology for allowing Solidarity and other political, economic and social groups independent from central authorities - then Walesa could come to the table, he said. If not, there is nothing to discuss.
The Communist Party evidently has decided it prefers to endure the economic upheaval of possible strikes rather than risk legalizing Solderity again.

As Polish political columnist niel Passent who is close to Rakowski, said in October that those who hoped the government would legalise Solidarity again were deluding themselves. Passent said authorities believe Solidarity would insist on getting involved in politics and that Walesa is unable to keep his followers in line. The Army intervened to restore party control when a legalised Solidarity grew so quickly in 1980-81 that it nearly toppled Poland's Communist Party. Passent said legalising the union again would be to risk political 'suicide.' In late October, Polish leader

Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski said Solidarity can be allowed only when the economy is healthier and when other political forums are created, so the opposition would not use strikes as its main weapon to win political goals.

Preserve Goan heritage

SIR: This refers to Jose Oliveira Fernandes' letter "Un-Islamic activities" (AT, Nov 17-18) in which he said ballroom dancing is alien to Goan culture and is regn-Islamic.

Let me remind Fernandes the Portuguese were in Goa for more than 450 years. During this long period Western cul-ture, including ballroom dancing, was introduced to the Goans and without doubt our forefathers adopted and assimilated it. So how can anyone say ballroom dancing is dien to Goan culture.

When Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru visited Goa to naugurate the now-collapsed Mandovi bridge, he praised our way of life and asked the Goans to preserve their heritage.

Even Mahatma Gandhi was not against other cultures when he said: "Let the doors and windows of my house remain wide open so that the winds of all cultures blow through them." We are living in a small world and nothing should be considered alien, except things from outer space. Regarding ballroom dancing being un-Islamic, let us leave it to the many Islamic scholars in Kuwait for judgement. Opin-ion of a person unqualified in Islamic matters carries little Fernandes also says that the organisers of dances amass wealth. Whether they amass wealth or not, it is clear that they legally work hard for it, and nobody is forced to contribute to their wealth. And if Kuwait Goans were the first to introduce ballroom dancing to Kuwait, I congratulate them. Peter D'Souza

Enforce traffic law strictly years and it shocks me to know that all these deaths and fatalities are caused by overspeeding. We might as well get rid of speed signs, because they are never implemented or obeyed. Don't the motorists know that the whole idea of a speed sign is to reduce fatal injuries? The traffic law violators include policemen. The solution to the problem would be to enforce the law strictly, otherwise the situation will not improve and everyone will be put to an unnecessary

Delvalle's replacement, Manuel Solis Palma, said in a television interview on Friday that it was up to Washington to initiate talks to resolve the crisis over moves to oust Noriega. Talks

Solis said his government had always been ready to hold talks with Washington as long as the United States respected Panama's sovereignty. "Any movement toward or away from (the US government) will depend totally on the position they adopt," he said, when asked whether he would seek talks with Bush.

Despite a mood of expectation, Commerce Minister Mario Rognoni told Reuters he foresaw no quick improvement in US-Panama relations, no matter who occupied the White House. "The United States is like a big supertanker. If you want to veer to the right or to the left or even if you want to stop, it takes a long time." he said. Despite several "information gathering" visits by Reagan administration representatives in recent mooths and a Delvalle visit to Washington in October, US officials insist policy on Panama has not changed.

They say they will continue to back Delvalle as Panama's "legitimate president," continue to press economic sanctions designed to force out Noriega. and continue to rule out any military action against their former ally A deal between Noriega advisers and US officials to allow the

Nothing much will change. Construction has now begun on an underground bunker at the Burning Tree Country Club for Vice-President-elect Dan Quayle. Bush handlers told me that this was being done to emphasize the important role the administration has in store for Quayle.

Bush has no Gipper and will probably urge everyone to win one for Dan Quayle, who needs the country's prayers a lot more than the Gipper did.

George Bush has a larger family than Ronald Reagan, and he sees them frequently. This means lots of photo opportunities as each expect to see more People magazine covers featuring Bush children than Princess Diana's and Fergie's babies combined. Social life will remain about the same as it was under the Reagans. Rich people will still be welcome at the White House and treated just like you and

In the sports department, Bush is an ardent tennis player and Quayle is a devoted golfer. The good news is that if Mr Bush travels abroad, Mr Quayle, who is also an excellent tennis player, can fill in a foursome for him so that presidential business will not be interrupted.

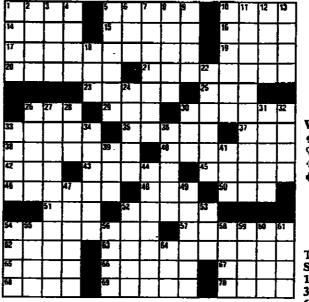

The in university under Bush will be Yale; the out school will be the hated "H" word, which stands for Harvard. anything coming out of Boston for the next four years will be viewed with the same seriousness as press communiques from the Sandinistas.

"It's hard for George Bush to follow Ronald Reagan's performance, because only President Reagan could get away with it. For example, for eight years the President cupped his ear to pretend he was hard of hearing each time he got on or off a helicopter or plane. No matter what the reporters asked, Mr Reagan just shrugged his shoulders indicating he had no idea what they were saying. Every once in a while he would shout back, "Yes," "No" and "So's your uncle. But Bush can't do this, because if he pretends to be hard of hearing, Dan Quayle will offer to take over the Presidency.

Not all people are happy about President Bush winning the election. I met one Democrat who said, "Everybody is concerned that something might happen to George Bush and then Dan Quayle will become President. But no one is worried about the effect of something happening to Dan Quayle and George Bush becoming President. Los Angeles Times Syndicate.

Once in a while, however, a player must weave a very tangled web if he wants to trap an opponent. It is difficult to fault North-South for reaching an inferior slam.

As little as the jack of spades instead of the queen-jack of clubs would have made the venture sound and the only legitimate way for declarer to hold his trump losers to one is to play an opponent for a doubleton ace of trumps, then lead through him up to an honor and play low from both hands to the next trick. The technical name for this maneuver is the Obligatory Finesse. However, that wasn't possible here, but declarer succeeded in pulling the wool over the defender's eyes and so came home nevertheless. As the first move in his canvas of false images, declarer covered the jack with the queen. East put up the king and declarer won. Next, he cashed the ace of clubs before leading a low spade toward dummy's king.

Let's move into the West seat From that vantage point, declarer had played as if he had a doubleton diamond and a singleton ace of clubs. He was now trying to get to the table with the king of spades to get rid of his diamond loser, or losers, on the good clubs. West was having none of that, so he shot up with the ace of trumps to try to cash the ten of diamonds. Finis.

Aries (March 20 - April 18) Today you will get on like a house on fire only you should not allow success to go your head. Make sure you do not lose sight of your objectives. Once you have made up your mind stick to it. Be less impulsive.

You will be able to make a move for the better. Do not be too proud to take good advice. Make sure you do not strain your eyes. Be

Gemini (May 20 - June 20)

The Moon's better influence will help you to persevere. You should not run out of the courage of your convictions and you should try to exercise a little more self-discipline. Do not do anything that might give rise to resentment. Be tactful.

You should keep your eyes wide open but should not altogether ignore something you have overheard. Venus' better influence will help you to deal with a more personal matter. You will be able to pursue you cultural interests. Be trustworthy.

You should not try to evade the responsibility for your actions. Not everything will proceed quite the way you would have liked but you will be able to make the best of things. Do not delay what you know should be done now. Be

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 21)

Today's better influence of Venus will help you to achieve greater harmony. You will feel more at ease with the world around you. You should not get caught up in some fiddly details. Be sincere.

You will be able to make the best of favourable situation. You should avoid exceeding the limits of propriety. Think hard before deciding on what you are going to do. Be grateful.

Today's better influence of Venus will help you to avail yourself of a good opportunity. You should make yourself somewhat more accessible. There is no point in trying to evade the truth, it will have to be faced sooner or later. Be

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21)

A good opportunity could easily be wasted. You will be able to enjoy life to the full. You should make sure your diet contains enough vitamins. Be lenient.

Make sure you know what you are doing before you tamper with anything electrical and do not leave the current on. Something that you thought was going to be difficult will turn out to be less so. You will be able to do a friend a favour. Be

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)

You will have to make sure you do not allow things to fall behind. Ensure that you do not trip over yourself. Do not be hostile to change nor make changes for the sake of change. Be more patient.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 19)

You will have to get more of a move on but there is no need to get flustered. You should think hard and long before you embark on a big financial commitment. Do not think you are the only one who knows anything. Be less effusive.

Japanese to search for oil in Jordan

AMMAN, Nov 23, (Reuter): Japanese experts are to carry out a $6 million search for oil and gas over two years in eastern Jordan, an embassy official said in Amman today.

Hesaid the Japan National Oil Corporation (JNOC) signed an exploration agreement with Jordan's Natural Resources Authority on Sunday.

The purpose will be to explore for oil, natural gas, oil shale and oil sand in a total area of 7,650 square km (3,000 square miles) in the Sarhan area, 85 km (55 miles) northeast of Amman, the official said.

Agreement If oil is found in commercial quantities JNOC, which is partly state-owned, will ask Japan's six leading oil companies to bid for an oil-sharing agreement with Jordan, he added.

Jordan produces less than one per cent of the 60,000 barrels a day of crude oil it consumes, but pumps about 12 million cubic metres (420 million cubic feet) of gas daily from its Risheh field near the Iraqi border. Canada granted Jordan $13 million in July to fund seismic work near Risheh next year by the Petro Canada International Agency for Co-operation. The agency signed a two-year $19million assistance accord with Jordan last year.

Other companies involved in the kingdom's oil search include the US Amoco Oil Company, the Dallas-based Hunt Oil Company and the Belgian firm

Kuwait wins gold medals

KUWAIT, Nov 23, (KUNA): Kuwait has won top awards for 25 years of distinctive participation in Baghdad International Fair, according to an official at the Kuwait Ministry of Commerce and industry today.

Head of fairs section, Abdullah Al Oufan, said in a statoment/that Kannait word two gold medals for distinctive and all-out presence in the Baghdad

The Kuwaiti pavilion earned applause in respect of organisation and decoration. Al Oufan said, adding that Kuwait also received a memorial shield from regular participation in the annual fair over the past 25 years. He said a total of 42 companies and corporations engaged in a variety of businesses took part in the fair. The delegation also comprised upwards of 150 salesmen of Kuwait-based companies.

Kuwaiti companies managed to clinch a good deal of business contracts and open new markets for national products in foreign countries, the official went on.

British Steel to be sold for $4.6b

LONDON, Nov 23, (AP): Shares in British Steel PLC will be offered to the public at 125 pence ($2.29) each, making the value of the state-owned steel maker £2.5 billion ($4.6 billion), the government said today.

The closing date for applications for the two billion shares on offer is Dec 2, with dealings in the shares due to commence simultaneously in London, New York and Toronto on Dec 5, the government said in disclosing details of the previously announced privatisation.

The share price was at the bottom end of market expectations that ranged from 125 pence ($2.29) to 140 pence ($2.56).

Analysts said the government was likely to set a low price to ensure a successful sale for the first privatisation since the government's troubled sale of its remaining stake in British Petroleum PLC, which coincided with the 1987 stock crash.

The market price of existing British Petroleum shares fell below the offering price of the new shares, killing the incentive for investors to buy the newly issued stock.

The British Steel sale precedes government efforts to sell off Britain's water and electricity industries beginning late next

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's Conservative government has sold off billions of pounds worth of state assets since she came into power in 1979. Her aim in selling off such companies as Jaguar PLC, British PLC, and British Airways PLC has been to promote capitalism and share ownership.

Iraq to set up first joint sector bank next year

MANAMA, Nov 23, (Agencies): Iraqi Finance Minister Hikmat Omar Mekhailef was quoted today as saying his country plans to set up its first joint sector bank next year.

The step, part of Iraq's postwar reconstruction plans, would be "just the beginning and as many as five to six more banks may be established soon," the minister told Dubai's Englishlanguage newspaper Gulf News in an interview in Baghdad.

He said the government was considering allowing banks of the Gulf Co-operation Council member states into lraq, but not foreign ones.

The GCC groups Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Qatar, Bahrain, Oman and the United Arab Emirates.

The economic rehabilitation schemes in Iraq, and also in Iran, began as soon as the ceasefire was enforced on Aug 20, halting eight years of fighting between the two countries.

Iraq on Nov I opened the first branches of the new state-owned Rashid Bank with a capital of 100 million dinars ($300 million). The bank will compete with the Rafidain Bank, and both will offer incentives to attract business, Gulf News said.

The minister said that "a more vigorous banking sector" and an enhanced role for the private sector were going to be the hall-marks of the budget that the government was now lining up for 1989.

The minister stressed that the Iraqi government's "first priority is to pay the debts." He declined to give precise figures about the debts, but the paper said they have been reported to be in the region on $65 billion. Mekhailef said: "I am glad that we are now looking at debts which are very managea-

Gulf News quoted him as saying many countries have either rescheduled their credit lines or have agreed to do so in principle. Talks were being held with Soviet Union, Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania. He said Sofia gave "a very positive sign."

The Soviets are Iraq's main arms suppliers. Mekhailef said that since President Saddam Hussein's order in 1985 to revamp the economy, the country has been diversifying its economic base away from oil which is the country's main revenue earner.

The financial policy now, he said, was geared to bringing about a "quantitative and qualitative change in the econ-

He referred to attempts to increase exports, including petrochemicals, fertilizers, manfatured and traditional goods. The Iraqi dinar at present is equivalent to $3.2 and is said to be overvalued. When asked about this, the minister conceded that there was an overvaluation. But we are not worried about it." he said.

Meanwhile, the second stage of Iraq's "third river" drainage project is nearing completion, according to official sources at the Ministry of Agriculture and Irrigation.

The scheme will eventually help link agricultural projects in central and southern parts of the country with the Gulf.

The present stage includes the digging of a long canal that will link the southern city of Nasiriyah with the Musayab drainage scheme, about 187 km to the north, and the construction of seven bridges over the new canal.

It also includes the building of a giantembankment, digging of a navigational route and reinforcement of drainage networks, particularly across the southern marshlands to withstand erosion and salination.

The first stage included a 211km canal stretching from the Damiaj marshland to a key pumping station near river Euphrates. The canal runs across a vast area of sand dunes and deserts sandwiched between the Tigris and Euphrates rivers beading down to the eastern and western drainage scheme of Al Gharraf.

When completed, the "third river" project is expected to cover an estimated area of 1.50 million hectares in central and southern Irag.

Key issues still pending in GATT talks

GENEVA, Nov 23, (Reuter): Government negotiators have almost completed a report on two years of talks on liberalising world trade, but they remain divided over several key issues, a spokesman for the GATT trade body said today.

Bargaining on farm trade reform, on which the United States and the European Economic Community diverge sharply, and on intellectual property rules for protecting patents and trade secrets will go on for two more weeks to try to narrow the differences, he said.

The outcome of these extra talks will be incorporated later in the 75-page progress report, which was adopted last night after six days of intensive discussions, delegates said.

The document will be presented to trade ministers meeting in Montreal on Dec 5 to review mid-term results achieved in global negotiations launched by 105 countries at Punta Del Este, Uruguay, in 1986, and to chart a programme for future bargaining in 1989-90.

Services

The negotiations, known as the Uruguay round, are being conducted under the auspices of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT). They are aimed at freeing the flow of world trade in 14 sectors, including manufactured goods and agriculture, and also for the first time service industries such as banking, insurance and tourism. A separate negotiating group on services was still in session, but was expected to complete its work in the next day or two, GATT spokesman David Woods told a news conference. Woods said it was clear that the ministers would be involved in "a real and major negotiation" at Montreal. This phase of bargaining had in fact begun in a substantial manner among past six days, and major progress including non-tariff barriers to trade, but the ministers would have to choose between rival options on other issues such as procedure for settling trade disputes, and changes in the GATT

Reform:

Farm trade reform is one of the most hotly disputed subjects in the talks. The US wants all countries to pledge to abolish all agricultural subsidies within an agreed period.

The EEC says this is unrealistic and has proposed freezing support for some products at 1984 levels as a short-term measure and reducing subsidies significantly over the long term.

70 factories on sale to private sector

BAGHDAD, Nov 23, (OPECNA): Seventy state-run factories have been put on sale to the Iraqi private sector, according to Adnan Abdul Majeed Jassem, undersecretary at the Ministry of Industry. He told the Baghdad weekly

'Al Ittihad' yesterday that the move was part of a government plan to do away with small projects and concentrate instead on "giant and strategic ones

Describing the projects on sale as 'profitable', he said they included food, construction and textile manufacturing plants.

Move

The move is seen here as further encouragement to the private sector so that it can boost its contribution to Iraq's postwar reconstruction.

Under new investment regulations, similar facilities have also been offered to Arab investors, including permission to acquire land on which to build projects.

Over $300 million Bank of Crete funds misused

ATHENS, Nov 23, (AP): A government investigator's report published today concluded that over $300 million belonging to one of Greece's leading private banks were misused or stolen by its chairman. Spyros Papadatos, temporary commissioner who was appointed earlier this month to investigate the widening bank scandal said chairman George Koskotas systematically siphoned about $135 million from the Bank of Crete which he passed through his own account." Papadatos' report named no politicians but said that Koskotas made loans without collateral or gave money to soccer clubs, athletes, business associates, journalists and friends. The report which disclosed names, did not specify whether any illegalities were involved in the loans and gifts totalling $200 million. Koskotas gained control of the bank in 1984 two years after he joined its accounting department. The scandal has rocked Premier Andreas Papandreon's socialist government which has been accused of dragging its feet in opening the investigation, Papandreon's son George, who is minister of the investigation. Papandreou's son George, who is minister of education, Minister to the Premiers Office, Agamemnon Koutsogiorgas and senior Socialist Party officials were accused by magazines and leading newspapers friendly to the government of being allegedly involved in financial dealings with Koskotas and illegally transferring money out of the country through his bank. The commissioner's report also listed state controlled public utility companies a major depositors at the bank totalling billions of drachmaes (tens of millions of dollars). The Central Bank said that deposits at the Bank of Crete are guaranteed but many clients have reported difficulty in drawing large amounts of money from their accounts. The government's reluctance to amounce what it intends to do with the bank has increased growing public disastifaction with its handling of the scandal. Koskotas is in Rio de Janeiro with his family and reportedly said he left because he feared for his life. He disappeared and apparently fled the country on Nov 6 while under police surveillance. Greece and Brazil do not have mutual extradition agreements but the government said a warrant has been issued through interpol for Koskotas' arrest.

Metal prices likely to fall in '89

LONDON, Nov 23, (Reuter): Metal prices are likely to fall next year from high 1988 levels as markets correct recent deficits to achieve a better balance between supply and demand, an indepen-dent British survey said today. But prices will not collapse because producers have been cautious about expanding or re-opening capacity, according to the Economist Intelligence Unit (EIU), a research unit of London-based Economist Publications Ltd. The changes will take place as industrial output growth and vehicle production in Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) countries slow down, EIU said in its 1989 world commodity outlook. Copper and aluminium supplies are expected to be in surplus with prices for both metals falling to about $0.90 a pound from a forecast 1988 $1.10 for copper and $1.20 for aluminium. Zinc prices are expected to fall to 48 cents a pound from 52 cents as supplies move into surplus with new production coming on stream in India, Canada, Australia and Brazil and lower demand from the construction and automobile industries. Lead will remain roughly in a supply/demand balance and the price is seen holding steady at around 30 cents a pound. Tin prices could rise to $3.59 a pound from $3.33 in 1988 as demand outstrip supplies. Nickel consumption will fall in 1989 due to lower demand from the stainless steel industry and prices. are expected to fall to between $3.90 and $4.50 a pound from 5.56.

"THE INSTITUTIONS AREN'T GOING TO JUMP AT THE FIRST BID ESPECIALLY AFTER WERELDHAVE'S RECENT FIGHT TO WIN PEACHEY, " HE SAID.

London Gold

LONDON, NOV 23, REUTER - GOLD BULLION PRICES REMAINED NEAR THE HIGHS OF THE DAY'S NARROW RANGE DURING QUIET LATE TRADING, SUPPORTED BY STEADY COMEX LEVELS AND THE METAL CLOSED AT

419_10/419_60 DLRS AN OUNCE. THIS COMPARED WITH THE OPENING 418.00/418.50 AND LAST NIGHT'S CLOSE OF 419.00/419.50 DLRS, AND ABOVE THE EARLIER LOW

DEALERS SAID GOLD TRADING WAS FEATURELESS FOR MOST OF THE SESSION, ALTHOUGH SOME EUROPEAN-ORIENTATED SHORTCOVERING HELPED THE MARKET MOVE UP TO ITS HIGHS THIS AFTERNOON. HOWEVER, INTEREST WAS SLACK, AHEAD OF THE U.S. THANKSGIVING HOLIDAY.

London Money Market

LONDON, NOV 23, REUTER - MONEY MARKET INTÉREST RATES WERE HARDLY CHANGED FROM YESTERDAY'S LEVELS IN A DIRECTIONLESS MARKET, DEALERS SAID.

CHANCELLOR OF THE EXCHEQUER NIGEL LAWSON'S REITERATION THAT INTEREST RATES WILL REMAIN HIGH IN ORDER TO BRING INFLATION UNDER CONTROL DID NOTHING TO BOOST MARKET SENTIMENT, THEY SAID. MUTE SHALL KEEP THEM AS HIGH AS WE NEED, AS LONG AS WE HEED, TO DO THE JOB," LAWSON TOLD THE EMPLOYERS' ORGANISATION, THE CONFEDERATION OF BRITISH INDUSTRY.

THE BENCHMARK THREE MONTH INTERBANK RATE WAS QUOTED INCHANGED AT 12-3/16 1/8.

Wall Street Market Report

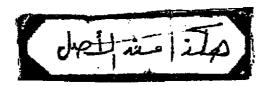

NEW YORK, Nov 23, (Reuter): Blue chips were mildly higher but off earlier levels as surge in crude oil prices put a crimp in bond prices. The doillar continued to slide amid a lack of central bank intervention. A rebound in some takeover issues offered some support to the market.

The Dow rose two to 2079. Gainers led decliners by a slim margin, Volume was "There's no buying interest," said portfolio strategist Andrew Riley at Yamaichi international. "I think the market is being driven by a lot of non-investor types," Firm short-term rates continued to lure money out of stocks, he said.

Tokyo Stock Market Report

TOKYO STOCKS CLOSE AT RECORD HIGH FOR EIGHTH DAY TOKYO, NOV 22, REUTER - SHARE PRICES CLOSED FIRMER, WITH THE MAIN INDEX AT A RECORD CLOSE FOR THE EIGHTH STRAIGHT. TRADING DAY, AFTER SHOWING ONLY SMALL GAINS MOST OF THE DAY,

"THE RISE DEMONSTRATES THE MARKET'S BASIC STRENGTH," SAID ONE BROKER. "IT'S BEEN A VERY BROAD, VERY GOOD DAY," SHE SAID. THE NIKKEI INDEX ROSE 145.86 POINTS, OR 0.50 PCT, TO A RECORD CLOSING 29,430.12. IT WAS UP 104.06 POINTS ON MONDAY. THE EIGHT-DAY BULL RUN HAS PUSHED UP THE INDEX BY A TOTAL OF 1,263.70 POINTS.

THIS IS THE NIKKEI'S LONGEST BULL RUN THIS YEAR AFTER RISING FOR 13 CONSECUTIVE TRADING DAYS FROM FEBRUARY 10. THE INDEX HIT A TRADED HIGH OF 29,433.13 POINTS JUST BEFORE THE CLOSE, EXCEEDING MONDAY'S PREVIOUS PEAK OF

THE BROADER FIRST SECTION INDEX, TOPIX, ROSE 12.73 POINTS TO A RECORD CLOSING OF 2,278.83, AFTER CLIMBING 13.99 TO ITS PREVIOUS CLOSING PEAK OF 2,266.10 ON MONDAY. WINNERS LED LOSERS SEVEN TO FIVE WITH 517 ISSUES UP AND

DAILY TURNOVER IS STILL BELOW THE YEAR'S RECORD OF SOME 2.7 BILLION SHARES SET IN JUNE. IT TOTALLED 1.2 BILLION TODAY. "THE MARKET IS TRYING TO REACH EQUILIBRIUM NOW AND BUYING UP LAGGARDS," SAID MIKE MORIZUMI, A MARKET ANALYST AT MERRILL LYNCH JAPAN INC.

THESE INCLUDED FINANCIAL STOCKS WHICH HAVE BEEN LARGELY INACTIVE SINCE A BIG RALLY ABOUT A WEEK AGO. HEAVY BUYING OF THESE STOCKS, WHICH ARE HEAVILY REPRESENTED IN THE MIKKEI, HELPED PUSH UP THE INDEX TODAY.

THE PROSPECT OF CONTINUED LOW INTEREST RATES ADDED A FURTHER INCENTIVE TO BUY SUCH SHARES, BROKERS SAID.

Hong Kong Market Report

HONG KONG, NOV 23, REUTER - A RALLY LED BY THE PROPERTY SECTOR DROVE HONG KONG STOCK PRICES HIGHER BUT PROFIT TAKING PARED GAINS, BROKERS SAID.

*PROPERTY STOCKS ARE BEING EAGERLY SOUGHT AFTER BY LOCAL INSTITUTIONS. SENTIMENT HAS IMPROVED FOR THE WHOLE SECTOR, SAID AN ANALYST AT A LOCAL BROKERAGE.

THE SALE OF THE SHIU ON CENTRE FOR 2,5 BILLION H.K. DLRS ON MONDAY WAS MAJOR FACTOR BENIND THE INTEREST, HE ADDED. THE HANG SENG INDEX SMEPT PAST THE 2,600 POINT RESISTANCE LEVEL IN EARLY TRADE TO END THE MORNING AT 2,618.07, UP 19.28 WHILE THE BROADER-BASED HONG KONG INDEX ROSE 11.65 TO 1,725.67

Sergio Amaral, secretary for foreign affairs at the Finance Ministry, told reporters Brazil would continue programmes to cut its foreign debt, which is expected to drop from $121.3 billion to 115.2 billion during

But he added it would introduce measures to limit such programmes in order to avoid inflationary pressures on the economy.

Debt

On Sunday Finance Minister Mailson Nobrega announced the government might suspend debt-equity swaps for six months or hold debt auctions on a bimonthly rather than monthly basis.

The various options are still being studied. "Nothing has been decided yet," said Amaral. Brazil's inflation rate this year is expected to top 800 per cent.

Since April, each month Brazil has auctioned off $150 million of mature debt in the country's major stock exchanges. By the end of the year, these debt-forequity swaps will have cancelled. $1.8 billion of debt.

The auctions have injected money into industries as diverse as paper, tourism and agriculture. In addition, informal conversions based on complex transactions which take advantage of a thriving black market have wiped $3 billion more off the

Creditors These informal conversions have enabled Japanese, European and US banks to get their money directly from creditors rather than going through the Central Bank. Amaral said $1 billion had been cut from the debt via exit bonds with fixed interest for 25

He said the government was likely to reduce the amount of informal debt conversions substantially in 1989.

Last month the government banned state-owned companies from participating in the informal scheme because they had fuelled a rising black market dollar rate and inflated the country's monetary base. About 85 per cent of the companies involved in such conversions were state-owned.

Foreign bankers and the state companies said they had expected government intervention in the scheme but regretted the decision.

Kuwaiti dinar deposit rates steady in quiet trade

KUWAIT, Nov 23, (Reuter): Kuwaiti interbank deposit rates were steady today in quiet trade, with the market having absorbed most of the monthly salary payments made earlier in the Dealers said the payments had been in the system for two to three days and predicted liquidity would be tight again by next week after banks had con-verted much of the funds into dollars.

Overnight funds were given at seven per cent after quotes of eight, seven yesterday. Tomorrow-next, well bid, was taken at nine. Spot-next was quoted at 8-1-2, 7-1-2. Unchanged

One and three months were unchanged at 7-3.4, 1/2 and 7-1 2, seven. Traders said that because banks were trying to close their books over the end of the year, few banks quoted rates past three months, and even that was rare. The Central Bank firmed its dinar exchange rate to 0.27925. 35 to the dollar from yesterday's 0.24952/62. Commercial banks quoted 0.27930/35. Meanwhile, Saudi riyal deposit rates were steady to firmer in quiet trade today, with rates supported by outright buying of dollars by corporate customers, dealers said. The firming is a continuation of a trend begun earlier this week. Before that, rates had fallen sharply following a Saudi Finance Ministry statement on Thursday affirming the government's commitment to a stable exchange rate of 3.75 riyals to the dollar. Offer

One-month maturities rose 1/ 8 point on the offer side from yesterday to 9-5/8, 3/8 per cent, and three months rose 1/16 point on the offer side to 9-3/4, 5/8.

Six months firmed 1/16 point to 9-11/16, 9/16, but one-year was little changed at 9-9/16, 1/2. Dealers reported little trade other than in one month.

Deposits have shown an inverse yield curve on and off over the last month, due in part to anticipation of budget announcements toward the end of the year.

In the short dates, spot-next and one-year were little changed at 8-3/4, 3/8 and 9-1/2, 1/8, respectively.

EEC ministers agree sharp cuts in farm spending

BRUSSELS, Nov 23, (Reuter): European Economic Community budget ministers yesterday agreed 1989 spending plans for the 12-nation bloc which include sharp cuts in farm spending, diplomats said.

It is now up to the European parliament, which debates the budget in December, to give final approval to the proposals before the year ends. If this happens, it will be the first time since 1979 that the community has entered a new year with a budget already

Diplomats noted the budget's speedy completion owed much to an agreement by EEC leaders in Brussels last February to rein in farm spending and reform the community's finances in general. Growth

But stronger than expected economic growth, the firmer dollar and higher commodity prices had also boosted Community revenues, effectively reducing the burden to be carried by member states next year.

Farm spending, set at 26.8 billion European currency units ($32.2 billion), will fall below 60 per cent of total expenditure for the first time since current budget calculations were introduced in the early 1960s.

The 1988 budget had been set at 43.8 billion Ecus ($52.6 billion), but the EEC's Executive Commission said last month that it would be left with about five per cent of that sum unspent because its farm support policy had cost less than expected.

Ministers postpone crucial oil talks

VIENNA, Nov 23, (Agencies): OPEC ministers agreed today to postpone a crucial round of talks until tomorrow to allow more time to hammer out an agreement to reunite the organisation and curb overproduc-

OPEC spokesman James Audu told Reuters: "The meeting has been postponed until about 11 am (1000 GMT) tomorrow morning."

It was the third time that OPEC ministers meeting in Vienna had pushed back a formal meeting of all 13 organisation producers. The delay was announced as intense behindthe-scenes talks continued for a seventh day.

Ministers had originally been due to meet at OPEC's headquarters here at 10 am (0900 GMT) today, but that had already been pushed back to 3 pm (1400GMT).

Deal

The Organisation of Petroleum Exporting Countries has been struggling to strike a deal to rein in production and reconcile rival demands by Iran and Iraq since last Thursday, first with a small group of mediators and since Monday with all 13 nations.

The main sticking point has been Iraqi demands to be allowed to pump the same amount of oil under any new output deal as its former Gulf war foe Iran. traditionally a larger producer.

Iranian Oil Minister Gholamreza Aqazadeh has consistently rejected that demand, but has come under intense pressure from Gulf producer nations to back down.

Aqazadeh repeated his opposition to such a deal yesterday after a nearly hour-long meeting with ministers from Venezuela, Nigeria, Algeria and Indonesia, and said he would "never concede to parity."

Oil futures had soared earlier after Aqazadeh, in response to reporters' questions, said: "I think we can reach an agreement."

OPEC President Rilwanu Lukman, who is Nigeria's oil minister, said: "We will not end without an agreement."

Output Aqazadeh wants Iran's share of total OPEC output maintained at the current level of 13.5 per cent, the second-largest after Saudi Arabia's 25.6 per cent. Iraq's share in the current production accord, worked out in 1986, is third-largest at 11.7

The current accord caps OPEC's total output at about 15 million barrels a day, although disregard for quotas has led production to soar to 21 million barrels a day. The glut has depressed prices worldwide.

A senior member of one delegation said on condition of not being identified that a consensus appeared to be building for a new ceiling of about 18.5 million barrels a day.

Under the current accord, Iran has a quote of 2.4 million barrels a day. Iraq was given a ceiling of 1.5 million, which it has refused to accept.

OPEC members are Saudi Arabia, Iran, Iraq, United Arab Emirates, Venezuela, Ecuador, Kuwait, Libya, Gabon, Indonesia, Algeria, Nigeria and Qatar.

A sudden mood of optimism had spread through the conference yesterday, but had evaporated by the time key OPEC ministers began a fresh round of bargaining today.

Oil analysts said talk of a breakthrough still seemed premature and some warned OPEC was back to square one, with neither Iran nor Iraq prepared, in public at least, to give way on the principle of production parity.

Before the fresh postponement of formal talks, United Arab Emirates Oil Minister Mana Said Al Oteiba had hinted that the organisation may need more time to thrash out a deal.

"There is an arrangement in the works, but I don't know when the work is going to be complete," he told reporters. 'I think we have to finish by the end of the week, we are not going to stay longer." The main thrust of negotiations has been to persuade Iran to back down on the parity issue in return for a relatively low 1989 production ceiling for the organisation as a whole.

White House sees US economy growing interest rates to fall as well.

WASHINGTON, Nov 23, (Reuter): The Reagan administration, bullish to the end on the American economy, predicted yesterday that 1989 would be a year of stronger growth, lower unemployment, falling inflation and declining interest rates. In contrast to warnings by many experts of hard times ahead unless the federal budget deficit is reduced, White House chief economist Beryl Sprinkel said the economy would expand 3.5 per cent next year and keep growing at a rate of more than three per cent a year in the first half of the next decade.

"I am pleased to report in the final Reagan administration forecast that the longest peacetime expansion is expected to continue in 1989 and beyond," Sprinkel, chairman of Reagan's Council of Economic Advisers, told reporters. The White House forecast assumes that the expansion, already six years old this month, will continue for at least 12 years without a recession, a prospect that many private forecasters say is very unlikely.

The economic forecasts will underpin the financial year 1990 budget that Reagan plans to sub-mit to Congress Jan 9. The year begins next Oct 1. Growth The projections of higher growth and lower interest rates

would appear to make it easier for the administration's budget

planners to reach the $100-billion budget deficit target mandated by a budget-balancing law for the 1990 financial year. But Sprinkel said he did not want to be accused of making Reagan's final forecast too rosy. Excluding the impact of the drought, which will have the effect of reducing farm output this year and boosting it next year, projected growth in 1989 would be 2.8 per cent.

That would be less than the 3.3 per cent the White House estimated in its previous forecast, which was released in July Sprinkel noted The official interest rate forecast is also less optimistic than it was in summer, he added. Growth this year is expected to be 2.6 per cent, or 3.3 per cent if the farm output lost to the drought is restored. Exports and capital investment should continue to power the economy next year consumer spending will increase less rapidly and government spend-ing is likely to fall slightly.

Unemployment

Solid growth should trim the average unemployment rate to 5.2 per cent in 1989 from 5.4 per cent this year, the White House

Although tightness in the prices would go up 3.7 per cent in 1989, less than this year's 4.3 per cent rise.

The Federal Reserve's tight grip on money supply and a declining budget deficit would labour market and a shortage of factory capacity are causing Wall Street to worry about inflation, Sprinkel predicted consumer

Sprinkel said. The three-month Treasury bill rate is expected to average 6.3 per cent in 1989, down from 6.6 per cent this year, while the 10-year treasury note yield is anticipated to drop to 8.3 per cent from 8.8. White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the new projections pointed to an economy that was on a very sound

"The economic indicators are quite positive ... our forecast indicates that it will stay that way, certainly through the 1990 period," Fitzwater said in Santa Barbara, California, where Reagan is spending the Thanksgiving Day holiday.

ONCE upon a time there was a little boy and his name was Oeyvind. He lived with his father and mother in a little house beside a hill. Fir and birch trees stood on the hillside, and the wild cherry let its blossoms fall on the roof of the house in the spring-

Oeyvind had a goat. When he was not playing with it, he kept it up on the flat roof of the little house, so that it could not run

One day, while Oeyvind was in the house, the goat looked up to the top of the hill, and he thought, "I should like to go up there." Then he jumped over to the hillside, and climbed far up the hill to a place where he had never been before.

When Ocyvind came out of the house, he looked up to the roof, and his goat was not there. He looked all about, but he could not see it anywhere. He grew very warm for he thought his goat was lost.

"Here, killy-killy-killygoat," he called. He heard the goat call to him from the top of the hill.

"Bay-a-a-a," it called. The goat was looking down at Oeyvind with its head on one side. A little girl was kneeling beside it with her arms around its neck.

"Is he your goat?" said the little girl. Oeyvind put his hands into his pockets, and said,

'Who are you?' "I am Marit," said the little giri, "mother's baby, father's mouse, little fairy

"Are you?'' Oeyvind. "Yes. Is he your goat, and will you give him to me?" said Marit. "He is my goat, and I will not give him to anybody," said Oeyvind.

"If I give you a butter-cake, will you give him to me?" said Marit. Now, Oeyvind had eaten a butter-cake once; it was when his grandfather had come to see them, and he had never tasted anything so good. "Let me see the buttercake," he said.

"Here it is," said Marit.

She took a butter-cake out of her pocket, and threw it down to Ocyvind. It fell on the ground at his

"Oh, it has all gone to pieces!" he said.

He picked up every piece of it. He tasted the smallest piece. It was so good that he tasted another piece, and another, and another; and before he thought what he was doing, he had eaten the whole cake.

"Now the goat is mine," said Marit. "Oh no, can't you wait a bit?" said Oeyvind. "No, no, you have eaten the cake, and the goat is mine," she said. And she put her arms around the goat's neck again. She tried to drag it away. It would not go, but stretched its neck and looked down at Oeyvind. "Bay-a-a-a," it said. Marit caught hold of its fleece, and pulled it along. "Come, Goatie dear," she said, "you shall come

That was all that Ocyvind could say.

His mother looked up to the roof. "Where is the goat?" she said. "Oh, it will never come

Then she went into the house with the spring water, and Oeyvind lay on the ground with his face to the grass, and cried as though he would never stop crying.

to keep him," said Marit.

She put her arms round the goat's neck, and cried as though her heart would break. Oeyvind looked away.

"I think you had better keep the goat," he said.
"Well, Marit," said a voice from the top of the

So Marit remembered

what she must do. She stood up and held her hand out to Oeyvind. "Forgive me," she said.

Then she ran up the hill without looking back. Ocyvind had his goat again. But he was not as happy with it as he had been before. But the next day, and nearly every day after that, Marit came down the hill and played with Ocyvind and his goat, and then Oeyvind and Marit and the goat were all happy.

A page is a part of a book, and the signature is a part of a letter. Can you pick out, from each of the following groups, the word that names the item of which all the other things are parts?

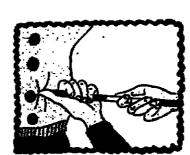

- 1 thumb, finger, palm, hand, knuckle
- 2 bank, water, estuary, river, current
- 3 stern, bow. boat, rowlock, keel
- 4 lightning, storm, thandingwind, rain 5 stage, seat, foyer, circle, curtain, theatre
- 6 word, full stop, comma, letter, paragraph, sentence

Take a piece of wooden dowelling about 30cm long. Paint the centre black and the two ends white for a magic wand. Make a small white paper tube that just fits over the white end of the wand by rolling some paper around the wand and gluing the ends together. Place the tube on one end of your wand before the show. invite a friend to stand up. Pretend to bore a hole into his body! Stand with your right side facing your audience. Place the tip of the wand against your friend's body. Cover the tip with your left hand and push the shell along the wand towards him. If you keep the end of the wand nearest you hidden behind your right arm, it looks as if you are really boring through his body. Pull the shell back along the wand and it looks as it you are pulling the

Ha! Ha!

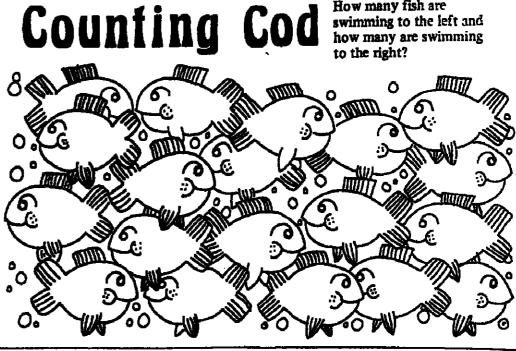

What kind of meat will not stand up straight? Lean meat.

Why did the pelican put his leg in his mouth when he ate out? Because he wanted to foot the bill.

Why did the man have a funny voice and funny teeth? Because he had a falsetto voice and a false set

Tyson-Bruno title fight off again NEW YORK, Nov 23, (AP): Mike Tyson's Jan 14 heavyweight title defence against Frank Bruno is off again, this time amid accusations and threats of lawsuits, according to published reports. Both the New York Times and the New York Daily News, in today's editions, said the fight was postponed late last night when the Las Vegas Hilton, site of the scheduled match, backed

"The fight is off," said Bill Cayton, Tyson's manager, after learning from John Giovenco, of the Nevada Hilton Corporation, that the hotel was "pulling the plug on the Jan 14 date."

Giovenco acted after being told by Tyson's attorney, Howard Weitzman, that Cayton's offer of a deal with boxing promoter Don King was "unacceptable" and there was "no way to keep it alive."

"I'm very disappointed," Cayton said. The terms for a bout with Bruno, who first became the No. 1 contender for Tyson's undisputed crown a year ago, would've earned the champion over $6 million.

A proposed deal with King, who Tyson says he wants as his exclusive promoter the next fouryears, was for the four Tyson fights carried by Home Box Office following the Bruno match. Cayton said as "a manager of integrity, I can't let my fighter commit financial suicide."

Now it seems all parties will show on one docket or another. "It will be a long time before Mike Tyson fights again," said Seth Abraham, an official of HBO, a paid television service.

REENY JOHN ON COURSE FOR TRIPLE CROWN

Faiz blasts Joseph for semifinals on course for his fifth Kuwait Open Badminton tournament crown when he scored an overwhelming victory over Bijoy Joseph in the quarterfinals at the Hubara courts late Tuesday

Faiz, the top seed and favourite to take the men's singles title, gave his future opponents a glimpse of the things in store for them when he blasted Joseph off court, winning 15-0

The top seed was simply too fast for his opponent who was not given the opportunity to settle down. The crowd had expecteo Faiz to take things easy as the former champion was due to play in the mixed doubles half an hour

Not only did Faiz crush his singles opponent but also his mixed doubles rivals when he joined Reeny John to thrash R. Dickson and K. Taylor 15-4 15-1. Reeny John won all her matches and stayed on course for a triple crown. Faiz won the singles title from HARROGATE, England, Nov 23, (Reuter): Bad luck continued to dog Finland's Markku Alen in the British RAC Rally today when he up-ended his Lancia Delta and lost precious minutes to drop into fifth place.

Alen led the five-day event until gearbox trouble and bad weather gave him problems yesterday and allowed his compatriots Juha Kankkunen and Hannu Mikola to overtake him.

His chances of winning the rally at his 15th attempt dwin-dled further today when his car hit ice and flipped on to its boot just 500 metres from the end of the Elibank forest stage in Scotland.

Kuwait have never won the Gulf knockout event in the Middle East's biggest rugby tournament, sponsored by Emirates. the international airline of the UAE, in association with MMI, so they are keen to become the first Kuwaiti side to represent the Gulf in Hong Kong.

There will be no shortage of support for the Nomads in this weekend's two-day rugby festival, with more than 20 players and supporters from Kuwait RFC having made the trip to Dubai.

A number of leading overseas sides are set to star in the Emirates International Trophy. The Bahrain Warblers, who traditionally include a strong All Black contingent in their line-up, crashed to a semifinal defeat last year in the open championship. They will be going all out to get their hands on the Emirates International Trophy this time, helped by New Zealand stars Mark Shaw, Greg Martin, Wayne Smith and Kieran Crowley.

But the Warblers will again face stiff opposition from a number of other sides packed with international talent. The Cambrian Thistles include former England captain Mike Harrison and Scotland's Scott Hastings, while Welsh side Crawshays, last year's open champions, will be led by Wales B international Colin Hillman.

Completing the Kuwait challenge in Dubai are Kuwait II, who face Bahrain I in their opening match, and 'Ford' Kuwait who take on Chidding-
